

THOUSANDS MAY BE DEAD IN BIG CANADIAN FIRES

WHOLE TOWNS DESTROYED AND FLAMES SPREADING RAPIDLY,
FANNED BY HIGH WIND.

THE END NOT YET IN SIGHT

Rescue Parties Meet Obstacles in Shape of Fallen Timbers and Find Dead Bodies Strawn
Along the Roads.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—It is possible the death list from forest fires along the border will reach the appalling total of a thousand. The most conservative estimates place the number at 200 to 500.

Every settler in the fire swept district who has not been accounted for is certain to be dead as there was no escape.

For a distance of fifty miles from Brandon and Dauphin River west to Warradale, the woods were a solid mass of fire Sunday. Only charred remnants mark the sites of Brandon, Spooner, Cedar Spur, Graceton, Pitt, Swift and Rossmore.

The mayor of Brandon states that seventy-five bodies already have been found and the list may reach 150. The fire swept district has many dead bodies in the roads.

Seek Aid.
Milwaukee, Oct. 10.—Several movements for the collection of petitions asking funds for the relief of the fire sufferers made homeless by the Canadian-American forest fires.

Near Warradale.
Warradale, Minn., Oct. 10.—Estimated loss of life in the forest fires which have wiped out several small towns and are still raging, range from fifty to two hundred and the property loss well into the millions.

The fire zone covers an area of 85 miles in length and thirty miles in width, covering all the territory between Red Lake and Lake of the Woods. The fires have wiped out Brandon, Spooner, Graceton, Pitt, Myron and Malcom.

Driven by high winds the flames are now sweeping eastward at fifty miles an hour. Warradale is crowded with a thousand refugees and is surrounded by flames. The refugees are terror stricken.

Springer, Manitoba. Twenty miles of Warradale is also threatened. A Canadian Pacific train is leaving Rainy River, Ont., with fire fighters, doctors and nurses for this place.

Parties Start Out.
Rainy River, Ont., Oct. 10.—Searching parties started out this morning over the fire-swept zone. It will be days before all the dead can be reached, owing to the obstruction of roads by fallen trees.

An instance is reported of sixteen persons saved by getting into a dry well and staying there until the fire passed.

Many settlers were saved by wading into the rapid river. The burned district will be placed under martial law and soldiers will distribute rations to refugees.

Worst Fires.
Minnesota is today passing through the worst experience in her history. Forest fires are spreading in all directions. Hundreds are dead and thousands are homeless. Rainy river is now half burned. The loss is estimated at $10,000,000. Three thousand square miles have been burned.

Raising Funds.
Manitowish, Minn., Oct. 10.—A fund of $2,000 has been subscribed here for the relief of the Rainy river district forest fire victims.

FIFTY MINERS IN SHAFT WILL DIE BEFORE REACHED, IS THE VERDICT

Men Are Four Miles Below the Surface and Deadly Gases Overcome the Rescue Party Who Are Driven From Workings.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Trinidad, Col., Oct. 10.—Hope that any of the fifty miners entombed in the Starkville mine near here following the explosion will be taken out alive was abandoned today when the rescuers after thirty-six hours of work said they can not reach the men for several days. Deadly gases hourly overcome the rescuers.

The mine is owned by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. The prevalence of black damp has compelled the hope of reaching the imprisoned men to be abandoned and it is not expected now that any of them will be found alive. The portable fan installed Sunday has failed to in any way clarify the atmosphere and make working possible.

The explosion practically destroyed the east or old slope of the Starkville mine. Its origin is a mystery. The mine had been closed as non-gaseous, and safety lamps were not believed to be necessary. It is also a "pick" mine, no shot firing being allowed.

Theories advanced such as the presence of gas pockets, blast and other combustible material, are not accepted by officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company as having caused the explosion.

Have Hops.
A three o'clock dispatch from the rescuers at work in the Starkville mine are hopeful of reaching some of the entombed during the day unless efforts are further blocked by week's age.

Terrible Scenes.
The scene at Starkville today is not unlike the recent Cherry, Ill., mine disaster. Grief-stricken widows are frantically fighting the rescuers for news. Most of the dead were married. The mining company state today the believed dead include six Americans, one negro, the rest Mexicans, Poles and Italians.

MUST ANSWER A MURDER CHARGE. SAYS THE JURY

CORONER'S JURY BLAMES WHOLE FAMILY FOR DEATH OF DEPUTY HARP.

WHOLE FAMILY INDICTED

Meanwhile the Husband, Wife and Son Are in Jail at Hayward to Await Their Hearings.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Winter, Wis., Oct. 10.—John Dietz, his wife and son, Lada, are accused of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp. Warrants were issued following the recommendation of the coroner's jury to that effect.

Coroner's Jury Verdict.
Oscar Harp came to his death by a bullet shot from the barn roof of John Dietz.

The shot was fired by one of these—John Dietz, Leslie Dietz, or Mrs. John Dietz.

We recommend that a charge of first degree murder be preferred against each of the persons above mentioned.

Is in Cell.
Hayward, Wis., Oct. 10.—John Dietz in prison here today paces his cell like a caged panther. He is reported to be sleeping at night and all day Sunday and through the night having walked continually from one end of the cell to the other.

Mrs. Dietz and sons, Clarence and Leslie, were arraigned this afternoon in the Sawyer county municipal court, here, for an alleged assault on two men in 1909 when the Dietz cabin was rushed and the authorities repulsed.

May Be Murder.
John Dietz will be tried for Deputy Oscar Harp's murder or the assault on Harp and was determined by District Attorney Davis following the inquest today at Winter.

Condemn Dietz.
Beloit, Oct. 10.—The Social Democratic local Number 1 of Beloit has adopted resolutions, condemning John Dietz for not surrendering to the authorities and also condemning the sheriff's deputies for shooting down the Dietz children from ambush. They also use the incident as a reason for annulling the so-called disgraceful administration of justice by the old political parties and for urging support to the efforts of social democratic members of the legislature in revising the criminal laws of the state.

TRIAL OF JANVRIN MURDER CASE WAS COMMENCED TODAY

Jurors Put in Appearance at Two O'clock This Afternoon—Case May Take Entire Week.

Of the thirty-six citizens of Rock county who were summoned for jury service, one—G. W. Larkin of Beloit—failed to put in an appearance at the court room at two o'clock this afternoon and nine were excused for various reasons. The nine were: Torris Gesley and T. H. Cheney of Beloit, Byron Snyder and Benjamin Latza of Clinton, James Conway and P. C. Brown of Edgerton, Frank Miller of the town of Rock, Harry Keller and Louis Gage of Janesville. The first twelve called to the jury box for examination regarding their qualifications to try the case consisted of George Viney and W. H. Grant of Janesville, E. E. Gabriel of Evansville, H. D. Treadway and G. H. Hillington of Beloit, W. G. Alexander of Lima, W. L. Paul and H. P. Smith of Milton, H. H. Ellington of Edgerton, R. W. Taylor of Johnston, John Godfrey of Harmony, and Harry Green of Porter.

It seemed likely at three o'clock that the entire afternoon would be taken up in this work and that the examination of witnesses would begin at the earliest, tomorrow morning. Judge Grimm in his opening instructions to the jurors stated that the case was the only one set for trial this week and that next week would be given over by him to a jury term in the Green county court. So those who are excused will not have to come back until one week from next Monday.

Frederick E. Janvrin was a patrolman on the Beloit police force. On or about the 30th of last March he is alleged to have shot a man named John Hayes, the bullet taking effect in one limb. Hayes' afterward died. Charges of murder in the second and third degrees are preferred. District Attorney J. L. Fisher and O. E. Oestreicher are prosecuting the case and the defendant is represented by M. G. Jeffries, M. O. Mount, and John Road.

TAKES ODD GAME BY SINGLE RUN

BELOIT DEFEATS JANESVILLE AT YOSTS PARK ON SUNDAY.

SOME CRITICISM OFFERED

As To Calling Ball On Wells On Second Inning Giving Him Chance to Hit Out the Sphere, Janesville and Beloit "fans" enjoy good baseball no matter who wins although both cities have rabid partisans that want their own players to come out ahead. That is natural and today much criticism is heard over the game Sunday, which was won by Beloit by a score of 1 to nothing.

Fifteen hundred "fans" watched the game from start to finish and saw as good a presentation of baseball as is often given outside the big leagues. Of course the majority of the players were amateurs and should be expected to give the real article; still it was mighty good ball from start to finish and but for the tally made in the second it might have ended in a tie game.

Every year since Janesville and Beloit have held the post season games there has been considerable argument as to who should select the umpire. Beloit has insisted on Schuler, a Beloit man, and Janesville fans have objected in vain. The interurban evidently favors Beloit and they usually have had the running of the park for these games and merely permitting Janesville managers to look in over the fence.

With the games between the two cities two each, yesterday's game was looked forward to with interest. Today there is considerable comment heard on the streets relative to Schuler's calling the first ball pitched to Wells in the second inning a ball and not a strike. If it had been a strike it would have put Wells out and Liles, who was at second would have failed to score. As it was Wells lined out a good one after two strikes had been called that brought Liles in and really won the game.

Perhaps it was a ball but to rooters from this side of the line it looked like a strike and with two out and Liles on second a hit meant a run and Wells got it. However, there is no use blaming an umpire. He is not infallible but he is the final judge in the matter so the run was made and the game won. However if the teams play again it is to be hoped to avoid criticism an outside umpire may be secured so that there can be no objection to any decision that is made. It is due the fans if nothing else.

Liles's delivery was a puzzle to Janesville throughout the game and Fene was the only one lucky enough to pull down a hit. This lone effort came in the seventh inning, with Fene first at bat but his successors failed to make good. Beloit landed on Lillivelt for six, all of which were scattered except the two in the second which brought in the lone run. Fielding on both sides was good and all the players were in first class shape. The score follows:

DERAILMENT AT HANOVER
BLOCKED RIGHT OF WAY

Ore Cars Went Off Track On Northwestern Road and Madison Wrecked Was Used to Clear Track.

A derailment at Hanover Saturday night on the Northwestern road at Hanover, blocked traffic over the line through there for a time Sunday. Spreading of the rails caused two iron ore cars, loaded, to leave the track and the cars were torn up. Trains running in that direction Sunday morning were sent around by way of Janesville, until the arrival of the wrecker from Madison, which reached here about noon and went to Hanover and set the cars back on the track.

Spending An Evening At the LYRIC

You'll get more real wholesome enjoyment for your money than elsewhere. Within the past two weeks we almost doubled our bill, yet the admission remain the same. We have endeavored to make the Lyric the most popular theatre in town and judging from the capacity attendance we have succeeded.

The following is the bill for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday:

Beeson and Harris
Presenting an eccentric singing, talking and dancing act. This number is a top liner and should be well received. See the original Cry Baby.

Neil Brodie
Comedian and banjoist. Trick playing, piccolo stunt, imitating and some extremely good original comedy. This act is another top liner.

Two Biograph films, both comical in the extreme: "How Hubby Got the Raise" and "The Gold Necklace."

One of Essanay's best films, "Patricia of the Plains," a strong, gripping Western drama.

Pictures changed every day. Two new illustrated songs every day.

Explosion Cuts Off Escape of Fifty Men in Coal Mine—Rescuers at Work.

Starkville, Col., Oct. 10.—Entombed by an explosion in the Starkville mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, at least fifty-two men are the objects of heroic efforts of rescuers, who worked throughout the day trying to penetrate the black depths of the mine in the hope that some or probably all of the imprisoned miners might be rescued alive.

Fifty men who were installing a fan in the pit were overcome about 300 feet from the portal and barely dragged to the entrance alive.

The presence of black damp, which almost invariably follows in the wake of coal mine explosions made the work of rescuers extremely hazardous and time and again members of parties were overcome, necessitating retreating to the open air in order that their lives could be saved.

Harden by previous experiences surrounding explosions in mines the residents of Starkville, in most instances silently watched rescuers as they entered the mine and later as they were dragged to the open air for resuscitation.

In addition to efforts to enter the mine by the east or new shafts, experienced miners were sent into the Starkville mine, which adjoins the Starkville property to dig through the masonry wall built to separate the mines when the workings ran together several months ago.

FRANK D. KIMBALL

A Mistake About Grand Opera. "It is indeed gratifying," said Joseph F. Sheehan, the famous tenor, who is coming to the Myers Theatre Tuesday Evening, Oct. 11th, for a performance of the world's favorite opera "Il Trovatore," to see that gradually the general public are beginning to realize that Grand Opera does not mean something intended only for the musician. During the past three years I have given special attention to those operas which are interesting to the average playgoer as well as to the musician and of these none quite so well fills the bill as "Il Trovatore."

an additional convert to grand opera. The oppressive heat of Chicago, did not seem to interfere with the successful run of "The Girl in the Kimono," which enjoyed a remarkable engagement of two nights at the Ziegfeld Theatre and which will be presented at the Myers Theatre Monday, Oct. 10. The play is a comedy with music, the scene being laid in New York city. The story winds around the young wife of a young husband who follows him into the highway of their apartment to bid him goodbye, and when she returns she finds the

FRANCIS WARREN IN "THE GIRL IN THE KIMONO," TONIGHT.

It is for that reason that I have secured the foremost artists in the country each one particularly fitted for his or her role and am playing that one opera only, this season. Given in English, as we do, "Il Trovatore" is as interesting in story and plot as any drama ever staged and seldom has a drama been staged with such a cast of stars as are in my company this year.

Besides the strong dramatic side there is the most beautiful and tuneful music. From a standpoint of melody alone no comic opera can compare with it. What comic opera has such beautiful numbers as the picturesque "Anvil Chorus," the wonderful "Miserere" in the tower scene, the famous trio at the end of the first act, the duet and sword fight at the close of the Convent scene and others too numerous to mention? It is no wonder then that at every performance I have people tell me who have never heard a grand opera before they would not have missed it for anything. You can put this down as Gospel truth: Anyone who hears "Il Trovatore" sung in English by such a company as the one I have the honor to head this season will mean what has blown the door shut behind her outside, dressed only in her kimono. She is trying to raise the janitor to unlock her door when a young bachelor from the opposite apartment appears in the hallway. She is obliged to explain her embarrassing position and failing to find any keys to unlock her apartment, he invites her to step into his apartment out of the raft and the public hallway until the return of the janitor. She finally agrees, barely stepping into the apartment when the husband returns and finds her gone. In a jealous rage he swears he will kill the bachelor, but is prevented from doing so by the sweetheart of the bachelor who has heard of her intended's attention toward the young wife. The whole neighborhood gets mixed up in the affair and when there is a ed by one of those famous Ziegfeld Beauty Chorus. The production is carried complete.

Here is a novel way of winning a husband. It is the plan successfully followed by Lizzie Roberts, a spinster. Age, apparently is no deterrent.

Should a newspaper conduct a lottery with a young man as the prize—buy or steal as many of the coupons as you can, then sit quietly back and await results. This is how Lizzie, in the play of "The Lottery Man" does.

The lottery, in the play, is conducted by a New York paper, Jack Wright, one of the reporters is responsible for the scheme and he offers himself as the prize. Meantime, he falls in love with a charming young lady and every effort is used to capture as many of the coupons as possible. Lizzie quietly enters the race. She invests but a single dollar—the price of the coupons—and steals a second from the cook. It is the latter coupon which wins the husband.

Wright, however, learns of Lizzie's theft and threatening her with arrest, she decides to disfigure rather than go to prison.

The comedy is by Rida Johnson Young, author of "Brown of Harvard," "Ragged Robin," "Just One of the Boys," and other well known successes. It was first produced at the Bijou Theatre, New York, by the Messrs. Shubert last fall and continued there to enormous returns for the remainder of the season.

"The Lottery Man" is announced as the attraction at Myers Theatre Wednesday, Oct. 12.

This week's offering at Connor's New Vaudeville Theatre opens with the four Van Kautheys, a musical quartet that have made a reputation for themselves all over the vaudeville circuit east and west.

The Van Kautheys get far away from the ordinary with one of the most pleasing musical acts ever seen here, and properly staged, showing a scene in Holland. They are German folk and sing German songs as they are seldom heard. All four are accomplished musicians, also and the music they produce on mandolin, violin, cello and guitar is a treat. Their quartet work is extremely well done. Gretchen Van Kautheys, contra-tenor, reaches low C in her song, "Wacht Am Rhein." Lena Van Kautheys gives a very sweet rendition of "The Roseary." It is an act of real merit.

Then there is a trick bicycle team, which according to the advance manager's word is a swell act. Moving picture films and illustrated songs complete a fine program. The bill changes Thursday.

REDMAN'S CONGRESS OPENED.

Indians of America Hold Important Meeting at Muskogee, Okla.

Muskogee, Okla., Oct. 10.—The greatest meeting of American Indians ever held, and possibly the last of such magnitude, opened here today. It is the American National Indian Congress, and is in no sense a "wild west show," but a meeting of intelligent red men, representing many tribes, for the purpose of recommending Indian legislation by congress, from the Indians' point of view.

The congress will last three days and affords a wonderful opportunity for the study of such tribes as the Apaches from Arizona, the Klamaths from Oregon, the Sioux from the Dakotas, the Seminoles from Florida, the Kickapoos from Texas and Sonora and the Micmacs from Nova Scotia. Forty acres of land have been set aside for the needs of the Indians during the congress, and the big pow-wows are held in a circus tent. The Indians have pitched their tipis in villages around this central tent and are given every opportunity to entertain themselves in their own fashion.

Passenger Agents in Convention.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 10.—Unusually large attendance marks the annual convention of the American Association of Passenger Agents, which opened here this morning. The members and their families came in style in handsome special trains, and at ten o'clock all assembled in the chamber of commerce and listened to the welcome address by the mayor of Dallas and to a speech by George F. Lupton, general passenger agent of the San Antonio & Aransas Pass railway. Business took up the rest of the day, and this evening reception, banquet and ball at the Columbian club. Tomorrow the members and their families will start on a trip to Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Galveston, Houston and Fort Worth, and they will be handsomely entertained in each of these cities.

The Nobbiest Street Boots Made

Here are the two styles of street boots which are proving especial favorites this season. There's no choice between the two as regards style or wearing quality. They're both the very latest, and both are exceptionally serviceable. You can make no mistake by letting your choice depend entirely upon your preference of leather.

RICH'S FAMOUS JULIA MARLOWE SHOES

Style No. 1652 is a blucher in patent leather, with dull kid top. It's made on Rich's celebrated Downer Last, and is just as comfortable as it is attractive and graceful. It presents a novel and tasty finish for the toe and the wave pattern top has won great favor.

Style No. 3962 is a welt blucher in the over popular gun metal, with top of dull calf.

The blucher cut assures really fitting, while the graceful lines of the Cavalier Last and Slant top pattern give that smart touch not found in the ordinary style.

The Elk Waterproof outsole insures protection under all conditions of weather.

The name "Julia Marlowe" has stood for the perfection of the women's shoe building art for over 20 years. And its well-deserved reputation is carefully guarded. Every shoe passes through 47 operations, and then subjected to the most rigid inspection before it can leave the factory.

These shoes are made for all occasions in over 150 different styles—and we don't charge you a cent more for the extra quality than you pay for only ordinary shoes.

The greatest value to be obtained from continuous publicity should be fully understood by every advertiser.

Continuous advertising is essential—because

Repetition builds reputation; convinces as to faith in self and merchandise.

It establishes in the public mind the idea of permanency and provides against the "out of sight, out of mind."

It fortifies against competition, open or hidden; breaks down indifference and opens the way to intimacy.

Repeated assertion, unchallenged, is accepted as truth.

Regularity creates and takes advantage of subconscious effect on the mind produced through the eye.

Continuous publicity is reputation continuously on the move.

If your advertising appropriation is limited take but one field, The Daily Gazette Readers, and appeal to them. Most everybody in this field reads The Gazette.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

If it were possible to divorce politics from business it would be a blessing to the country, for the fact is generally recognized that the great disturbing element in the political ferment incident to campaigns which come so close together that they occupy the center of the stage in practically a continuous performance.

The uncertainty incident to changes of state and national administrations destroys confidence and weakens stability so necessary in the business world.

The United States today is doing business under the double standard of gold and politics. The latter is more generally adopted as the circulating medium, because any kind of a brain can grasp it and accumulate a supply without practicing economy.

The title, "cheap politician," is significant because the class is largely represented by men who are not troubled with wealth, to any large extent, and the gold standard is beyond their grasp. Yet these are the men who aspire to office successfully, make our laws and regulate the universe.

These men are endowed by a lot of long-haired writers and orators, who bristle with theories and preach the doctrine of unrest and discontent.

The American people today are on the high tide of prosperity, and but for the unrest due to political agitation, would be the most contented and happy people on earth. They adjust themselves with lightning rapidity to changed conditions, and even they are unable to keep pace with the agitators and law-breakers. A financial journal, in discussing the situation, says:

"About the best that can be said regarding the business situation is that sentiment shows some improvement. There is a greater disposition to cut loose from the political incubus trusting to the common sense and intelligence of the American people to settle right the disturbing feature."

"While there is more or less hesitancy and while general trade still remains on a hand-to-mouth basis, demands are increasing rather than decreasing. It is a good omen that it would require few stimulating factors to inspire much greater confidence in the business world."

"One of these factors might be disclosed by the coming election; another or might appear should the interstate commerce commission allow a reasonable increase in freight charges which would undoubtedly result in enlarged railroad expenditures.

"After all, the fundamental support lies in the fact that crops are now made, and if they are disappointing in one or two directions, they are far above the average in the aggregate."

PUBLIC PLAYGROUND.

The state of Wisconsin is noted for its lakes and streams, which nature provided with lavish hand and yet the people of the state, as a class, only know of their existence by hearsay, and but few of them enjoy their beauties at close range.

Here and there are little clubs of half a dozen men who own a few acres of land and a cabin, on the shore of some lake, but the man without a preserve of this kind would be at a loss to know where to pitch a tent.

The American Lumberman, in the issue of October 8, urges the importance of utilizing these "beauty spots" for the benefit of all the people, and suggests a plan of state aid which seems practical and most commendable. The paper says, in part:

"While the statement is not based on definite information, it is possible that Wisconsin and Michigan have more poorly equipped summer resorts than any other like area of country in the world. The only compensating feature at hundreds of them is the beauty of their environment."

"Now to turn the state's lands and a portion of those privately held into a playground would call for radical revision of the laws pertaining to the administration of this province."

"Minnesota has made an excellent start in its method of handling Insko park. It has regulations safeguarding the game and fish in the park and has created there a retreat which welcomes and soothes all who care to seek the solace of its inviting embrace."

"To accomplish on a big scale what Minnesota has so ably carried out on a small one requires a somewhat heavy initial expenditure. It would mean the creation of state or interstate forest patrol service. The men who during a few months of the year would be required to guard against the inception and spread of fire at other seasons could be employed as game wardens and guides, cut trails and establish camps."

"Their activity, along these lines should result in opening up the wonders of the interior to the tenderfoot, to the men and women of the congested cities around the lakes and in the interior who desire for a brief while to study nature at close range."

"The employment of the rangers and wardens as guides would assure the states a considerable income from this source alone, which could be augmented by the fees charged on each rod and gun carried into the woods."

"To carry out this broad plan of utilization naturally would involve considerable initial expense. It probably would require several years to perfect details and to get the machinery in working order, but at the end of the period of preparation the wild lands of the states should prove a considerable source of income instead of, as at present, an expense."

"Another and more remote benefit to be derived through this method of handling wild lands would come from the preservation of young timber. Every owner of outcrop land should not only be glad to concede a right-of-way or a trail through his holdings and possibly camps at the more beautiful points but should co-operate actively with those who have charge of such work. With trails established the patrol of the northern timber and outcrop lands during the dry season can be accomplished easily and with very small expense."

"With very little assistance nature will take care of the task of reproduction and during the time required the use of the lands as a playground should prove remunerative not only in a financial sense but from improved citizenship, the outcome of a better understanding and closer acquaintance with nature."

WISCONSIN NOT KENTUCKY.

Had John Dietz been a resident of Kentucky there would have been nothing out of the ordinary in the lawless course which he has pursued, but the experience is so new for Wisconsin that it attracts wide attention. When Attorney General Gilbert and Secretary Munson called at the Dietz cabin last Friday, to try and effect a peaceable settlement, twenty-five newspaper correspondents were on the ground, among them a representative of the New York Sun. The story to his paper contains the following sketch, which is of interest.

"John Dietz is almost as celebrated for his hospitality as for his feud with justice. He keeps open house for all who come in a friendly way to talk with him, and he is never tired of talking about his grievances. There is plenty of meat and drink for all who are well recommended."

"Dietz is a socialist, and his trouble with the lumber company has filled him with fury against all corporations. His visitors register in a book on a table in the living room. Dietz admits that he has become a fanatic on the subject of the inequality of corporations. The other day he said: 'When a man has thought of one thing for six years it is apt to change the convolutions of his brain.'"

"The Dietz children, although adept with the rifle and living in an isolated cabin in a clearing, are not illiterate. As they are the only children in the district the father has always insisted that the school-board must provide a teacher for them, and this it has done, educating the young Dietzes in a lean-to built next to the cabin. The Dietzes have a typewriter, and Myra typewrites as well as she sings. It was in a quarrel with the school board over the rental of the tenno that Horel, intervening to mollify John Dietz, was shot by the enraged enemy of corporations."

"This little side-light on the home life of John Dietz, who surrendered to the authorities Saturday night, after his cabin had been riddled with bullets, accounts for the fanaticism of the man who had so long defied the law."

The family led a hermit life, having so little to do with the outside world that they had ceased to be a part of it. The only family in the school district, they had neither neighbors nor associates, and the long continued nursing of grievances caused them to feel that the hand of every man was against them."

Under these conditions it was easy to set up a little kingdom of their own and defend it against all intruders. It is easy to criticize the officers who have failed to arrest the man in efforts which have been made during the last half dozen years, but public sympathy was with Dietz in his long fight with the lumber company, and not until he became an outlaw did any officer feel that he would be supported in capturing him dead or alive."

That justice will be done him is not a question of doubt. If he is mentally unbalanced, he needs hospital care, and if morally desperate public safety demands that he be locked up. He is not a safe man to be at large and the community which he has so long disturbed will rejoice that his career has closed."

The loyalty exhibited by his family may have been inspired by fear, for a man of his disposition is likely to be a tyrant in the home. The state may have been humiliated but the officers can not be criticized for doing their duty in defense of law and order."

The tragedy of forest fires in northern Minnesota calls for practical sympathy from all sections of the country. Half a dozen towns have been destroyed, hundreds of lives lost, and thousands of people are homeless. Governor Eberhardt of Minnesota has called for aid and the response should be prompt and liberal."

Mr. Bryan is rattling around like a dry pea in a pod. Between the "new nationalism," which he claims to have discovered years ago, and re-organized democracy along conservative lines, he is between the devil and the sea, undecided which way to jump. He is in a receptive mood, however, and liable to be captured by the prohibition party."

The air trip from Chicago to New York is still prospective. The first airplane to make the trip on Saturday was disabled nine miles out, but the plucky driver proposed to continue the journey. In the meantime the limited train continues to run on scheduled time."

Colonel Roosevelt is having the time of his life traveling through the South. At one little way-station the audience which greeted him was composed of negroes who didn't know him. Finally one colored brother said, "Is you President Roosevelt?" and then an old darkey preacher passed the hat for a collection."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE OPTIMISTIC OUTSIDE.

A moment ago I was talking with a woman who is first-cousin to the late Grover Cleveland. She is a large woman, round-faced, hearty and the most aggressively optimistic person I ever met. She believes in herself, in me, in you, in everybody, in everything. She believes in God.

"What makes you so radiantly cheerful?" I asked.

"God and cold water," she replied. "I believe in the goodness of God, and I take a cold shower bath every day."

"And you have no troubles of your own?"

"Troubles?" replied Grover Cleveland's cousin, with broadening smile. "Troubles? Why, my dear sir, I have my full share of them, but I keep them inside, instead of letting them get outside for other persons to see. I have a little philosophy of life. It consists in wearing the optimistic outside."

"Hurrah for the optimistic outside!" Let us put it on, every one of us, and wear it night and day. Let us don it as a garment, the optimistic outside, the velvet cloak of cheer, the satin robe of smiles, the embroidered toga of the high senate of human kindness."

Is there a stingy sorrow in your heart?

Well—Don't let it distort your face. Don't let it get outside and sting other persons who have nothing to do with your sorrow. They have troubles of their own. Keep yours inside. Wear the optimistic outside.

Doing so you will radiate good cheer, and it is incredible that some of that good cheer will be absorbed into your own system, the troubled department of your spiritual interior, and cure it."

Grin and bear it? No—Smile and get rid of it!

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

Some men are always before the crowd, the nation's hero, of whom we're proud. We hail them as citizens, and when we hear his name, we wear his picture on our hearts, and when the papers come to our hermitage, and our heads swell up for a half a mile if the great man gives us a pleasant smile. But the man who makes this country great is not a fellow of high estate. He doesn't ride in a palace car and tell the crowds what his opinions are. He doesn't hold that the corner rock of the government is a mass of talk. He does his work and he saves his words; his life is clean and his credit good; he loves his home and he loves his wife, and he doesn't yearn for the circus life; he pays his debts and he goes to church, and he's the neighbor who's in the lurch. He doesn't lecture his fellow man, who's doubtless doing the best he can. He shuns the noise of the world's applause, his hands are busy, and not his jaws; he walks through life with a fearless tread, and dies at last like a thoroughbred."

THE GOOD CITIZEN

CONGREGATIONAL MEN MEET.

National Council and Societies Open Annual Session at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The meetings of the National Council of the Congregational Churches of the United States and of the National Congregational Societies, which began today in Tremont Temple, have brought to Boston scores of leaders of the denomination from all parts of the United States, and several from abroad. Addresses will be made by H. M. Beardsley of St. Louis on "Industrial Obligations," by President Ozora S. Davis of the Chicago Theological seminary; on "Immigration in Relation to the Church," by President Marion L. Burton of Smith College; on "The Religious Education of Congregational Youth," and by President Albert Parker Fitch of Andover Theological seminary on "Partnership of the Church and the Theological Seminary." The stated sermon will be by President W. Douglas Mackenzie of Hartford Theological seminary.

The sessions last through October 20, and among the interesting features will be the celebration of the centenary of the American Board, beginning tomorrow.

Autos Crash; One Man Dead.

Palmer, Mass., Oct. 10.—Thomas F. Callahan, proprietor of the Chelsea Inn at Chelsea, was killed near here when the automobile, he was driving collided with another car. Three other were badly hurt. They were returning from the Democratic state convention at Boston.

German Cattle Are Sick.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—The foot and mouth disease is epidemic in Germany. It was officially gazetted that the disease had appeared during the present week in fourteen districts, extending from Koenigsberg in the northeast to Baden in the south.

TURBINE ENGINE IS DEFINED

Likened to Paper Windmill Pinned to End of Stick and Played With by Children.

There are probably few people outside the ranks of engineers who know what a turbine is. "The best idea I can give of it," said an engineer, "is to liken it to those paper windmills which spin on the end of a stick, and which are sold to children in the streets. A turbine, in fact, is like a series of these revolving wheels fixed one behind the other, only instead of being turned by the wind, it is revolved by jets of steam. The turbine wheels turn on a shaft inside a cylinder. In the interior of which are fixed a number of stationary blades which project into the spaces between each wheel. The purpose of these blades is to catch the steam and direct it on to the wheels at an angle where it will exert the most force. As the steam enters the cylinder, it is caught by the stationary blades and deflected on to the blades of the first wheel, which are set turning. The steam then passes to the next, until all the wheels are set whirling, and the ship is driven through the water."

COMMON COUNCIL MAY SUBSTITUTE WOODEN BRIDGES

In Questions to Be Submitted to Electors—City Engineer Is Ill and No Meetings Will Be Held Tonight.

City Engineer C. V. Koch, without whose advice it will be impossible to reach any definite conclusion on the subject, is confined to his home with rheumatism today and common council deliberations on the bridge problem will be postponed. A special meeting will be called for the purpose sometime before Monday next. The council meant to make this an adjourned meeting but failed to qualify the motion for adjournment at the conclusion of the session last week.

Mayor Carlo and others are so strongly persuaded that the people will vote down any proposition for $20,000 cement and steel bridges at Fourth avenue and Racine street when it is understood that bonds cannot be issued in that the Racine street bridge, at any rate—and that the whole lot will have to be collected at one time, that they are seriously considering the advisability of submitting questions of wooden structures at the forthcoming election.

It will be necessary to reach a decision in this matter before Monday next in order that the election on the special questions may be advertised in advance as the law stipulates.

ENTERED A CAR IN RELIABILITY RUNS

Monitor Company Will Have Product of Local Factory in Race From Chicago to Milwaukee.

John James and Michael Campbell, John and Fred Delaney and Dr. H. O. Delaney were the pallbearers. The remains were laid at rest in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

SURPRISED FRIENDS BY WEDDING TODAY

Miss Frances Reus and Mr. George Welch Married at Six Thirty This Morning.

This morning at six thirty, at St. Mary's catholic church, Miss Frances Reus was united in marriage to George Welch, only a few intimate friends of the bride and groom being present. Later a delicious wedding breakfast was served at the residence of Father W. A. Goshel after which Mr. and Mrs. Welch left for a wedding trip to Chicago, going to Clinton by auto to evade Mr. Welch's friends who had learned of his wedding trip to take part in giving them a happy send off. However, W. A. Goshel read the marriage service, the couple made the church, with Prof. Thiele at the organ rendering the beautiful wedding music. Mrs. Welch is a daughter of Philip Reus and is a sister of the late Mr. Reus, who was a prominent organist at the church and the choir. Prof. Thiele, Dr. McCullough, the best man, Miss Lillian Bourgeois, and a few intimate relatives and friends were present at the wedding breakfast. The groom has been employed in the William Huber barber shop and has a host of friends who offer their congratulations. It was expected that he was to have been married on Wednesday and elaborate plans had been made for his entertainment. The ceremony today surprised his friends. Mr. and Mrs. Welch will be at home to their friends at their new home, 102 N. Bluff street, after Nov. 14.

It is a meeting that will attract state wide attention and it is safe to say that no vacant places will be found at the tables.

EDGERTON WOMAN HURT IN RUNAWAY

Miss Cora Barless Was Thrown From Rig at Foot of Hill on Eastern Ave. Sunday Afternoon.

Miss Cora Barless of Edgerton was badly cut about the face and forehead and sustained severe bruises and a bad shaking up in a runaway upset on Eastern avenue, this city, about two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The horse was being driven by a Stoughton young man and got away from his control near the Milwaukee addition, descending the steep hill at a terrific pace, throwing the occupants out upon a curb. The young woman was carried into Patrick Kienmeier's home, 721 Eastern avenue, and Dr. Launis was called to dress her injuries. The young woman's face was almost completely swathed in bandages when she started for Edgerton with her escort later in the afternoon.

TO DISCUSS PLANS WITH THE OWNERS

Committee of Industrial and Commercial Club to Talk Over Prospects For Big Factory Here.

At the regular meeting of the directors of the Industrial and Commercial club this noon a committee composed of H. L. McKinnara, T. S. Nolan, C. S. Jackson, F. L. Clemens and Andy O'Brien was named to go to Chicago to discuss plans with the owners of the large factory that is investigating Janesville as a possible site.

EDGERTON TOBACCO LAND BRINGS HIGH PRICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Oct. 10.—W. T. Pannoy & Co., leaf tobacco firm of this city, have for a number of years leased three acres of land in the city limits upon which has been grown tobacco which furnishes the famous Comstock Spanish tobacco seed. This land was owned by Mrs. H. L. Williams of this city, and the local firm has purchased the same at $500 per acre, making it the highest price in real estate in the history of Edgerton. Some of the 160 seed from this field has been tested and from it the firm have plants with leaves four inches across. Mrs. Ray Watson and daughter, Mrs. H. B. Knapp, left this morning for Chicago to be in attendance at the graduation exercises of their daughter and sister, Miss Ruth Watson, from the Ravenswood Training School for Nurses which takes place this evening.

REPAIRING OLD FENCE POSTS

Concrete May be Used to Restore Timber That Has Rotted Away Under the Ground.

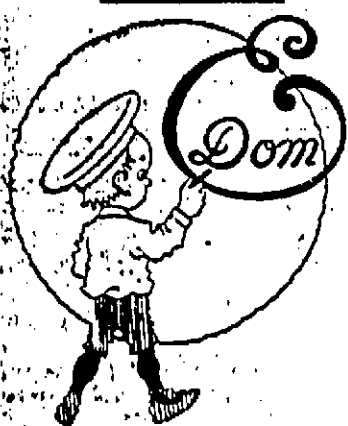

It is often found that a few posts in a fence, that is yet good, have rotted at the bottom, while the top is yet sound; these may be easily repaired

Concrete Mold.

In the manner shown in illustration, says homestead.

A hole is excavated around the post to the depth of the decay and all rotting wood removed; a form of tin or wood is placed around the post and concrete filled in and beveled off at the top so that it comes well up beyond the decayed part of the post or above the surface of the ground. Posts repaired in this manner are in every way as good as an entire new post and will give as many years' service.

Wearing Apparel Is Selling Briskly

How well it sells depends. There are several things to make some kinds of ready-to-wear garments go slowly. It will be worth your while to call at The Big Store and see the kind of Suits, Skirts, Coats and Waists that are selling fast. It is an excellent time to select a garment now while assortments are so complete. Every day brings shipments of wearing apparel from the leading manufacturing centers.

The New Coats

If you have got to have one, right now is a good time to buy it. If you are a woman, miss or child, we think we have just the garment you want. We have great confidence in our line of coats. We consider it about as strong a line as we have ever shown. Our styles, while embodying the newest ideas, are not the extremes. We control the lines of several leading houses for Janesville.

Women Aim For Individuality

and this is emphasized at The Big Store in a marked degree. In the words of the gushing school girl, our styles for misses, juniors and children are simply "dear." A pretty cloak will make the average child about as happy as anything you can give it.

The Tailored Styles

with straight lines, semi and tight fitting backs are shown in Scotch mixtures, Kerseys and black and blue broadcloth, Skinner satin lined. The colors in this line are principally new shades of blue, brown, grays, tans, wines and greens.

Some of the Best Novelties

embody the loose backs, belted and loose effects, with the raglan shoulder and sleeve. They come principally in mixed goods, trimmed with contrasting piping of velvet or broadcloth and large fancy buttons. The sailor collar and military collars are also featured.

The Big Store's Supremacy Is Daily Acknowledged

by women who have visited every store in Janesville and a goodly number of the Chicago and Milwaukee stores. It is quite a feather for us to have them say that they can do the best at The Big Store.

If you are not quite ready to buy, make your selections now, make a cash deposit and we will reserve any garment for you. There is quite an advantage in doing this, as the earlier you select your garment the larger the assortment.

What Good Will Come of Lighting Our Streets the NEW Way?

First—The city will immediately take rank with all the live, hustling, metropolitan cities of the country.

Second—The beauty and attractiveness of our downtown streets will be enhanced a hundred-fold.

Third—Every business man who conducts a store along a street lighted with these new Electric Light Posts will realize great benefits, and a noticeable increase in business.

Fourth—Every property owner who lends his aid towards getting these new Electric Light Posts placed along his frontage will actually have his property increase in value.

Fifth—Visitors who will come to this city will go away with a feeling and realization that Janesville is one of the booming cities of the middle west.

In considering what other cities have done in the way of lighting the main streets with ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS, we will not devote much time to cities like New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Indianapolis, and other larger cities.

Ask anyone, though, who has ever visited Waterloo, Des Moines or Davenport, Iowa, Omaha, Oklahoma City, Rock Island, Ill., Aurora, Kewanee, and countless other smaller cities, we say, ask anyone who has ever visited these and other cities, what they think of such a system.

The answer will be that they are live towns, that the merchants and property owners are more than satisfied with the investment, that having these ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS along the main thoroughfares actually draws business to the stores, that buyers are attracted by the ELECTRIC LIGHT and so become accustomed to shopping at stores located on streets where the ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS are placed.

It has been proven by business men in these cities that country buyers are ever attracted to the towns that have adopted this ELECTRIC POST system of street lighting.

We have figures which show the cost of installation of artistic, serviceable and practical ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS—prices on both 3 light and 5 light posts. We also have figures which show the average cost to each firm for maintenance, that is keeping the lights in order, furnishing new lamps, new globes and keeping globes clean. We turn on the lights at dusk and turn them out at either 1 or 12 o'clock, whichever time will suit the merchants.

ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS are economical, practical, more up-to-date and metropolitan, serviceable and artistic than any other form of street lighting yet devised. Turn a switch and a whole block is lighted at once with a bright, clear, cheap and attractive light that impresses everyone with the fact the city is a real city.

Merchants and property owners are invited to visit our offices on the Milwaukee Street Bridge and see photographs and blue prints of the various styles of ELECTRIC LIGHT POSTS.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

FOR HIGHEST EFFICIENCY.

Efficiency should be the purpose in view in feeding horses and men—capacity for accomplishment, including capacity for enjoyment. Vitality consumed in digesting and eliminating superfluous food is capacity wasted. An occasional fast of from two to six days with the proper mental attitude gives control of appetite and allows for the elimination of poisonous matter retained in the system through weakening of the eliminative functions due to over-eating and complex diet and bad mental conditions. A uniform diet that furnishes the necessary elements of nutrition in the proportions required for the rebuilding of wasting tissue, the maintenance of heat and energy and the vital cell activities maintained largely through the agency of the mineral elements, is the ideal. This balanced ration is better supplied in whole-cereal bread and butter or cream, or unmilled rice and cream, or nuts with banana or raisins, or oatmeal with cream, excluding other foods, than by the average hit-or-miss dietary including a dozen articles. The average person may not realize the benefit to be derived from such a system, as I and many others have proved it by experience for several years, but the invalid and the trained athlete who has learned the bearing of diet upon endurance, should not hesitate to put it to the test, remembering that changes should be made slowly and that time will be required to see the benefit.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

WHAT a superfluity this world, at least this part of it—it may be different on the other side of the globe—has of half-cooked people. People whose judgment is always a few minutes and usually some hours behind their actions, I mean.

It seems to me that to one person who would be improved by thinking and moving and acting more quickly, there are nine who would be made more desirable citizens by thinking and moving and acting more deliberately.

Most of us go off half, or at the most, three-quarters cocked, the majority of the time.

A man told me recently of a stenographer whom he was about to dismiss for just that fault.

"I told her of something I wanted done," he said, "and she seems to understand me perfectly. She assents to all my directions. I say, 'Are you sure you understand just what I want?' She is almost insulted by my doubts and rushes off to start the work."

"In five minutes she is back to interrupt me at what—over I have focused my mind on, with half a dozen questions that she had thought of."

"She's a nice girl in lots of ways but I want someone who doesn't go off half-cocked most of the time."

Emerson, in one of his essays, speaks of "afternoon men" who upon the scheme of things by being always tardy, always lagging behind the times, always a bit too late in their decisions and actions.

Seems to me the scheme of things is upset a good deal more by "sunrise men" who are always snatching their own and other people's energy by hasty and unconsidered action.

In one of the western states, there is a prison where the men who have committed crimes that are a result of quick temper, such as murder or manslaughter or assault, are set to work doing some of the very finest work of watchmaking.

They deal with such microscopic and fragile parts that a hasty or ill-considered movement will destroy the work of weeks.

The theory is that the complete control and slowness of motion that this work requires acts upon them mentally and teaches them self-control and deliberation.

Seems to me it wouldn't be a bit bad idea if a course in watchmaking could be introduced into the public schools.

I suppose that is a very wild idea, but surely if the habit of control and deliberation could be inculcated, even to a small degree, in our children, it would do young America more good than some of the frills and furbelows with which its educational garments are trimmed nowadays.

IF NOT IN THE GAME, THEN CHEER.

(THE MARY REAGAN.)

Did you ever go into an audience room and feel an almost insane desire to go about shaking and straightening up the lolling, unalert people?

Most people sit on the tip of the spine, which is against all rules of health, and against all possibility of thought. The iller or over-tired person slumps into a shapeless lump.

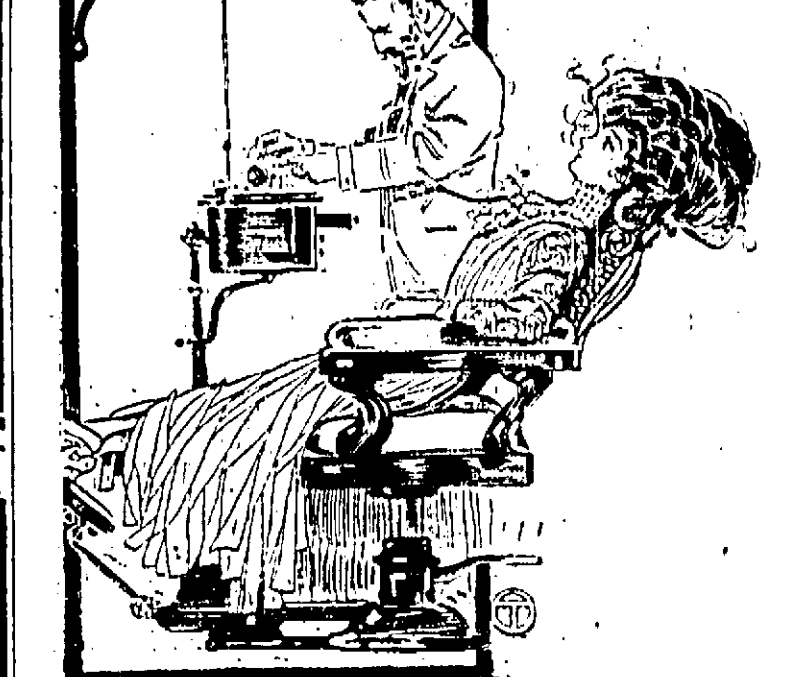

Such a one would better be at home and in bed. His attitude is the result of a defective training in the art of giving attention.

It is well to have attention in the school course, but it is better to have a constant supervision of the everyday habits which make or mar the human frame, which is so often twisted out of shape that it certainly has small claim to be called divine.

Mothers should give quite as much care to the manner in which a child sits as to the way in which it walks. Few would tolerate a slumping stoop shouldered gait, and yet the child drops into a heap without any more than a passing protest. It is not just to the child, for such habits are the forerunner of a thousand ills of lungs and bones, and brain. It was once thought particularly fitting to have a "scholarly stoop" of the shoulders, but some of the most advanced thinkers of our generation are erect and alert of body as well as of brain.

Thoughts do not necessarily come over a curved road and it is wise to understand that those who are strong in body will have a better chance for strength of brain.

It is this that urges the necessity of class spirit in the girls as well as the members of the football team. The girl who goes to the game and cheers along the side lines may not be taking as active a part as the players, but she is filling her lungs with fresh air and her soul with enthusiasm. If you can't run, cheer the runners. If you do not play games, give your voice and approval to those who do work for pennants and other useless trophies. The bit of silver or rag is not the real trophy. It is the training and team work which is the real gain. If you are not on the active team your part is to work for your horses. Cheers have won as many battles as

HALLOWEEN FUN.

Chanticleer Has His Place In This Year's Revels.

WEIRD ROOM DECORATIONS.

Jack-o-lantern Centerpiece For Super Table Surrounded by a Ring of Dancing Witches Made With Paper. A Trick For the Night of Spooks.

Favors and decorations for the night when witches are supposed to hold hideous revel and speak to wraiths abroad can be effectively fashioned at home from the simplest materials. A weird effect may be imparted to the room in which the Fates are to be consulted by fastening natural branches to the picture molding all the way round, musing them above doors and windows and draping them with trailing wisps of gray crane paper cut in long quarter inch strips to resemble Florida moss. Fatten small pumpkin lanterns with the branches and suspend black cardboard bats here and there.

Pumpkins of various sizes, cut from heavy cardboard, covered with orange crane paper and finished with grinning features made from black tissue, may be scattered over the walls. Cardboard ovals and lean open mouthed cats with high arched backs and belching fells may be perched here and there, and vines laden with small pumpkins—all of crane paper—will supply a striking note of color on mantel and table. As a centerpiece for the latter use a huge Jack-o-lantern lighted from within and surrounded by a ring of dancing witches fashioned from paper and wire.

A cleverly designed little almond cup is in the form of a witch's hat. The brim is represented by a disk of cardboard covered with black crane paper. The disk is four inches in diameter, and in its center a white fluted almond cup is pasted. The tall pointed crown is fashioned like a cornucopia and inverted over the cup like the snuff of a candle. The front of the hat is decorated with a tiny broom made of straw colored tissue with a wire handle.

Dressing up gives a child more pleasure than any other kind of fun. And the crane paper merchant has come to the aid of the mother who wants to help son and daughter transform themselves into field hoppers or burnyard roosters. The magnificent and most illustrated here is made of nothing more valuable than white tissue paper cut into feather shapes and glued upon a foundation of cheese-cloth. The head is made on a foundation of stiff paper cut into the shape of the head and shoulder cape, the tall feathers are magnificent specimens of tissue paper plumes, and a giant sunflower wand gives the touch of color to the costume.

A Trick For Halloween.

Here is a cunning trick for Halloween: Cut out of a large apple two or three round pieces the size and shape of the end of a candle. In the center of one end of each one stick a small, round piece of peeled almond. This is the wick. Light it and blow it out when the flame has blackened it. Tell your friends that you once had a friend who was a colonel of a Russian regiment, from whom you learned to eat candles, at the same time lighting your apple candles. Then blow them out, pop them into your mouth and eat the other end, eat them.

Forget your prejudice for just one baking

Lay aside your favorite baking powder for just once. Forget for a day that it is "the kind mother used." Dispense with the idea that there is "nothing else just as good." It may have served you admirably for years. But just remember, other things have improved since grandmother's time. So why not baking powder? Get from your grocer today a can of Calumet Baking Powder. Bake a batch of biscuits, a cake or your favorite pastry. If the baking does not come out just as good, or better, than usual. If it is not as light, sweet and delicious. If it does not prove up to your high standard in every respect, providing of course you have in every other way exercised your usual methods, take the can of Calumet back to the grocer and get your money. This is our first step in making friends for Calumet. The continued good results, the purity, the economy in both cost and use will hold them.

MOSES, LAWGIVER
AND STATESMAN

WAS SUBJECT OF DR. BEATON'S
ADDRESS LAST EVENING.

MASTER GENIUS OF HISTORY

Moses Had the Problem of Dringing Law and Liberty to a Race of Slaves.

Moses, the Statesman and Lawgiver,
was the subject of an interesting lecture-sermon which was delivered at the Congregational Church last evening by the pastor, Rev. David Beaton. He dealt clearly with the value of law and with the greatness of Moses as a lawgiver.

"In the Old Testament order of religious development," said Dr. Beaton in part, "We first find Abraham the believer. It was Abraham who first separated from the tangible, the in-tangible ideal in which he believed with a devoted faith. And after Abraham came Moses, the man who laid down the law.

"A man must be born through faith to religion. But no sooner does he become a believer than he begins to experience the laws of his faith. All humanity is subject to the rule of law. Without the physical order of the universe chaos would inevitably result. Chance and superstition are eliminated with the realization of law and order. The general recognition of the principle of law constitutes civilization, and men learn that any deliance of those principles brings a sure retribution.

"Morality is the great and underlying principle of all law. It lies in all the profound truths of politics and is at the bottom of all political reform.

"Moses was one of the master geniuses of history. He was an original man because he realized that to form a nation and inspire liberty in the down-trodden, chain-bound Israelites who had been the slaves of the Egyptian Pharaohs for generations, demanded law. He faced the problem of making the ideal real, of making the law a reality. It is much the same problem that Spanish and Portuguese statesmen today have to face. How can they bring people who have seen the vision of liberty,
but through the ignorance and tyranny of a thousand years of despotism are utterly unable to rule themselves—
how can they bring them to a realization of their hopes? The solution is law, and a certain enlightening kind of law with morality at its base. Thus Moses gave that great moral code of the Ten Commandments, which might be called the Mosaic Code of the Jews.

It was a literary masterpiece and one of the great masterpieces of civilization. With the fundamental principle of law and liberty embodied in this code the Jews became a Nation. They are principles which lie at the basis of all Nationalities. The distinction between an ignorant, semi-barbarous people and a civilized community is the presence of a moral code of laws.
"Recognition of and submission to the law was the great lesson which Moses taught. Only through it, and by it can our highest aims and our longer our beliefs and make them more actual. Our work for humanity, if performed under the guidance of God's laws, will at last bring us the reward of a clear conscience, of a duty well done and a feeling of peace with God and our fellowmen.

ity; the more one knows the more

CLINTON PIONEER
DIED LAST NIGHT

Mrs. Rachel Weaver, Who Settled in Clinton in 1837, Passed Away at Her Daughter's Home
Yesterday.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Clinton, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Rachel Weaver, mother of Mrs. S. S. Jones, passed away last night at 10:35 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm.
and one-half mile east of town on the Milwaukee road. Had Mrs. Weaver lived until Oct. 24, she would have been 93 years old. She was the last of the first old settlers born, moving here with her parents in 1837, settling at what is known as Clinton Corners,
one mile west of town on the Milwaukee road. She was in her usual good health until midnight, Thursday, when she was taken with a sinking spell.
She remained comatose and spoke to Mr. Jones a few moments before she peacefully passed into her final sleep.
Mrs. Weaver was one of the most beautiful characters it is possible to imagine. The funeral will take place at the home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Clyde McGee officiating.
Interment will be at the village cemetery north of town. Mrs. Weaver's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Morn of Detroit, Mich., arrived yesterday morning at 10:28.

GOOD BOOKINGS IN FUTURE AT STAKE

Janesville Cannot Expect More Standard Attractions Unless Better Support is Given.

The following communications will probably be of interest to the theatregoers of Janesville and vicinity. So far this season Manager Myers has been very fortunate in securing the excellent attractions that have come to Janesville which, however, the people of Janesville do not seem to appreciate as the box office receipts are far from what they should be. Considering the extensive improvements that have been made in the Myers theatre and the excellent standard plays that have been offered there should have been accorded a much more generous patronage.

It would seem that a town of Janesville, which would respond and support a first-class house. The following letter is self-explanatory.

Mr. Myers Theatre,
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: The business this season with the attractions that we have played with you has been very bad and far from what we anticipated. We are doing everything in our power to give you a lot of good attractions but when you discouraged these managers
from the beginning with such poor business you cannot expect them to give you their attractions to follow.
I think it would be very advisable on your part to endeavor to give them
some business within the next month or so with the attractions that play at your house. It will then be easy sailing for you to get them to book all their attractions. I trust you will put yourself out of the way to get them some business with the shows that are booked with you as, if this is not done I fear it will be a hard matter for us to get them to book
their attractions with you.

This is simply a little advice on my part and I trust that you will take it in the spirit it is given.
Yours truly,
LEE SHUBERT.

The Shubert Theatrical company is not what is known as the theatrical troupe, but one of the largest independent booking houses in the country, and they have been cooperating earnestly with Mr. Myers.

It is seldom that a city of Janes-ville's size is able to get such a liberal run of good shows as we have had and in order that Janesville may continue to be favored as in the past the Janesville theatre-goers must come to the front more liberally. It is simply a matter of supply and demand. What class of attractions does Janesville want? If the patronage is not forthcoming for the standard class of attractions, it will be impossible for Manager Myers to secure them in the future and the only thing left will be the popular-priced shows. Manager Myers has done his part very liberally using plenty of advance notices, and advertising, both in the newspapers and on the boards.

It has probably been noticed that many of the attractions seem to come at one time. This is a matter over which Mr. Myers has no control as he must take the attractions when the engagements are open to him or lose them altogether. It is probable that there is only one remedy for this situation, as Mr. Myers suggests, that the theatre-goers do a little boosting among their friends.

THRILLING PLAY AT
THEATRE SATURDAY

Good Sized Audiences Well Pleased
With the Indian Play, "The Flaming Arrow."

"Thrilling in its plot, yet lacking the blood and thunder elements that characterize many of the western plays,"
"The Flaming Arrow" was very ably presented at the Myers Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening. The plot of the play is well drawn and the lines are tinged with human interest. Comedy, well introduced by the author, adds strength to the main plot of the production. The cast was capable and in none of the parts taken was a weakness shown. Some very good vaudeville stunts were brought into the third act, a vocal solo by Snowball, the negro servant, and a hurdy melody by Sergeant Jerry.
Scene effects were also excellent.
There was a good sized audience at the matinee and a fairly large crowd witnessed the evening performance.

DAME NATURE HINTS
When the Food is Not Sulted.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.
To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft,
starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, tea, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Food and coffee were no better, for I found the food very constipulating.

A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret making this change. I began using them three months ago.

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way.
"Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a reason."
Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in place.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

POTATOE PRICES
— DUE TO DECLINE

Local Dealers Expect to Lay in the Winter Supply at a Much Lower Figure.

Prospects this fall are good for a large crop of potatoes of fine quality. It has been surprising how the late varieties have grown since the rains of the latter part of the summer. Present weather conditions are favorable for ripening the crop and local dealers are looking for a drop in prices. Farmers are already beginning to bring in fine specimens of the tubers and prices have fallen from around a dollar, to eighty and eighty-five cents a bushel. The winter supply will be put in later than usual
this year owing to the lateness of the season. It is also expected that Rock County will furnish most of the supply and it will be no necessary to draw on the northern crop. Prices will undoubtedly be much lower;
some authorities say they will be as low as fifty cents.

Other Vegetables.
Fall rains have also done much for the smaller vegetables. The cabbage crop is quite large and all that have been received up to the present time, are of good quality. Tomatoes have been higher than usual this fall but the present sunny days have ripened them in great quantities so that there has been a recent decline in price to about eighty-five cents a bushel.
Beans, are confronted with a scarcity
in the onion crop and most of this important vegetable will have to be shipped in. Pumpkins and squashes are scarce this fall and their prices will consequently be high. The usual production of the roots, as carrots, beets, and parsnips is reported, however, and their prices will be reasonable.

CHARLEY WHITE ON
VISIT TO THE CITY

Little Pugilist Who Met Abe Attell in Milwaukee Here For Day or Two.

Charles White, considered by many
one of the corners in the squared circle, is visiting in Janesville on route for Chicago where he will train for his bout with Tommy O'Tell, the clever Philadelphia boy at Milwaukee in two weeks. White is twenty-one and a very gentlemanly little fellow.
He weighs in at 122 lbs. and has boxed some of the best of the little men in the business with varying success. While he lost the newspaper decision to Abe Attell in Milwaukee he won from "Frank" Connolly the week before and Connolly is the boy who put Monte Attell to the count in 32 rounds in Los Angeles. White had fought Abe Attell once before, ten rounds in Memphis and hopes for another go with him later. He will return to Chicago tomorrow.

SAW THE PRISONERS
LANDED IN HAYWARD

Edward H. Peterson Says That Arrival of Dietz and Son Caused No Particular Stir.

Edward H. Peterson returned Sunday morning from the Iron Lake district in Sawyer county. He was in Hayward Saturday night when the deputies brought in John Dietz and son, Leslie, and says that their arrest occasioned no more excitement
than the arrest of a couple of "common drunks" might produce on the streets of Janesville. There was no demonstration of any kind. The whole region is sick and tired of hearing about Dietz and his fortunes and the rest of the state has been and is much more perturbed over the affair
than the immediate neighborhood.
The people up north think the "hero of the Cameron Dam" will be leniently treated by the courts and that he and his family are destined to reap rich returns for all their harrowing experiences on the vanderville stage.

DIETZ SLAYS
DEPUTY SHERIFF

GUARDIAN OF CAMERON DAM
GIVES UP FOLLOWING ALL DAY FIGHT.

FEARED FOR WIFE AND BABES

Sends His Little Daughter Out With Flag of Truce, But Not Until After Cabin Was Well Perforated With Bullets.

Winter, Wis., Oct. 10.—Helen Dietz,
the youngest daughter of John F.
Dietz, brought to an end the stubborn resistance of her father against what he considers an injustice, at the edge of the clearing surrounding their beached home with these words spoken to Sheriff Mike Madden: "If papa comes out will you promise not to shoot him? He is shot through the hand and wants to surrender."

The surrender did not come, however, without death and bloodshed.
One man is dead, three men and a woman are wounded and much property has been destroyed.

The dead:
Oscar Harp, thirty-five years old,
deputy sheriff.
Injured:
John Dietz, forty-nine years old,
shot through the hand.
Chet Colebatch, thirty-five, deputy,
right ear shot off.
Clarence Dietz, shot through arm.
Myra Dietz, shot through body, will recover.

The last two named, children of John Dietz, were shot by deputies in the preliminary skirmish a few days ago.

One Deputy Is Victim.

Harp was found on a hill behind the Dietz cabin with a bullet hole in his head. He and three other deputies had tried to crawl to a place of vantage in the lumber pile near the Dietz barn, when a well-directed bullet caught him.

The other deputies retreated without trying to rescue their comrade.

Dietz was injured while firing from the barn when a bullet went through a crack and struck his left hand.

Stark Cause of Surrender.
Dietz denies that the wound caused him to surrender. To Father Joseph Pilon, the priest who was largely instrumental in bringing the long-drawn-out contest to a close, he whispered that a baby was about to be born to his wife, and he feared that both she and the infant might die.

The surrender of Dietz was dramatic. The alert lumbermen, leaning on their rifles at the edge of the clearing and gazing intently at the windows of the log-cabin, suddenly saw the flutter of a white handkerchief at the door. Then little Helen appeared, and, advancing with the cloth over her head, walked to the edge of the clearing, where she announced that her papa was willing to surrender.

Feared for Wife and Babies.
With Father Pilon and Deputy Sheriff Thorburn, when they went into the cabin to arrest Dietz, were a number of newspaper men.

Dietz submitted to arrest quietly, saying: "I could not hold out any longer with myself and Leslie or-phanded. The bullets came so fast, it looked like the wife and babies would get it, too."

Dietz's left hand was in a sling and he was smiling and spoke cheerfully to the newspaper men. He posed for several pictures with the sheriff, in one of which he was shaking hands with the official.

"Why didn't you give in when assured of a fair trial by the attorney general?" a reporter asked.

"They kept on changing their plans," he replied, "and I did not know what I could depend upon. Besides,
we thought we could have lasted it out, and we could have but for the little baby we expect. You might go into the house and see what we have had to stand."

In the trim little cabin, where Mrs.
Dietz was still at work putting things
in order, broken jars and dishes lay scattered on the floor, they having been struck by bullets, of which more than 2,000 had been fired during the day. Bullets lay on the bed, having bounced back after striking against the wall. It was a miracle that the entire family was not wiped out.

Mrs. Dietz Breaks Down.
Mrs. Dietz broke down and weepingly asked the reporters to say that she and the children did not fire a shot.

"If I had not argued and argued with John we would all have been dead before morning," she said.

Mrs. Dietz is under arrest with Leslie on warrants of four years' standing charging assault with intent to commit murder.

While the arrest was being made
the little girl and boy, clung to their weeping mother and Leslie, who was wounded in the hip, sat sullenly in a chair.

Dietz was brought to Winter with his entire family. He was rushed to the jail at Hayward in an automobile;
while Mrs. Dietz and the children will be taken care of here.

J. C. Davis, the district attorney of Sawyer county, said there were enough warrants out against Dietz to send him to prison for the remainder of his life if he was convicted.

Negro Lynched by Mob.
Danville, Va., Oct. 10.—An unidentified negro suspected of committing many robberies near here was shot to death by a mob near Pellham, N. C.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

Novelized by
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
From the Play of the Same Name by
WINCHELL SMITH

Copyright, 1910, by Winchell Smith and
Louis Joseph Vance

"Fact," Duncan assured him. "It was working his way through college, you see, whereas I was working my way through my allowance and then home. That's why you never met him. Willy, he worked and got the habit. We landed with the same result. That's why he's useful and you're ornamental and I'm—He broke off in surprise. "Hello," he said as Robbins offered a tray to the three on which were slim stemmed glasses filled with a pale yellow effervescent liquid. "Why the blood waters of excitement, please?" he inquired, accepting a glass.

From across the room Larry Miller's voice sounded. "Are you ready, gentlemen? We'll drink to him first, and then he can drink to his royal little self. To the boy who's getting on in the world! To the junior member of L. J. Bartlett & Co."

Long applauded loudly. "Hear, hear!" and even Willy Bartlett chimed in with an unemotional, "Good work!" Mechanically Duncan downed the toast. Kellogg was the only man not drinking it, and from that the meaning was easily to be inferred. With a strident Duncan caught his hand and crushed it in his own.

"Harry," he said a little huskily, "I can't tell you how glad I am. It's the best news I've had in years."

Kellogg's response was another enough. "It makes it doubly worth while to win out and have you all so glad," he said.

"So you're taken him into the firm, eh?" Duncan inquired of Bartlett.

"The blue eyes widened stonily. "The governor has," he said. "I'm not in the business, I know. Never had the slightest turn for it, what?" Willy set aside his glass. "I say, I must be moving. No, I can't stop. Kellogg, really, I was dressed at the club and Larry told me to take it, so I just dropped round to tell you how jolly glad I am."

"Your father hadn't told you, then?"

"Who, the governor?" Willy looked unutterably bored. "Why, he gave up trying to talk business with me long ago. I can't get interested in it, upon my word. Of course I knew he thought the device and all of you, but I hadn't an idea they were going to take you into the firm. What?"

Long and Miller interrupted, proposing adious which Kellogg vainly contended.

"Why, you're only just here!" he expostulated.

"Can't help it, old chap," Willy assured him earnestly. "I must go, anyway. I've a dinner engagement."

"You'll be late, won't you?"

"Doesn't matter in the least. I'm always late. Night, Kellogg. Congratulations again."

"We just dropped round to take off our hats to you," Long continued.

Another woman

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Black Duck, Minn.—"About a year ago I wrote you that I was sick and could not do any of my household work. My sickness was called Retroflexion. When I would sit down I felt as if I could not get up. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and did just as you told me and now I am perfectly cured, and have a big baby boy."

Mrs. ANNA ANDERSON, Box 10, Black Duck, Minn.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

pumping Kellogg's hand. "And tell you what a good fellow we think you are," added Miller, following suit.

"You don't know how good you make me feel," Kellogg told them.

Under cover of this diversion Duncan was making one last effort to slip away, but before he could gather together his impediments and get to the door Willy Bartlett intercepted him.

"I say, Duncan,"

"Oh, raise!" said Duncan beneath his breath. He paused ungraciously enough.

"We've got to see a bit of one another, now we're met again, I know. Wish you'd look me up. Half Moon club 'll get me most any time. We'll have to arrange to make a regular old fashioned night of it, just for memory's sake."

Duncan nodded, edging past him. "I've memorized enough," he said.

"Right! Oh! Any reason at all, I know, just so we have the night."

"Good enough," assented Duncan vaguely. He suffered his hand to be wrung with warmth. "I'll not forget. Good night." Then he pulled up and ground, for Willy's insistence had frustrated his design. Kellogg had suddenly become alive to his attitude and balled him over the heads of Long and Miller.

"Nai, I say! Where the devil are you going?"

"Over to the hotel," said Duncan.

"The dence you eat! What hotel?"

"The one I'm stopping at."

"Not on your life. You're not going just yet. I haven't had half a chance to talk to you," Robbins, take Mr. Duncan's things."

Duncan, set upon by Robbins, who had been hovering round for just that purpose, lifted his shoulders in resignation, turning back into the room as Miller and Long said good night to him and left at Bartlett's heels, and smiled away in semi-humorous deprecation of the way in which he let Kellogg outmaneuver him. When it came to that it was hard to refuse Kellogg anything he had that way with him, especially if one liked him. And how could any one help liking him?

Kellogg had him now, holding him fast by either shoulder, at arm's length, and shaking a reproving head at his friend. "You big duffer!" he said. "Did you think for a minute I'd let you throw me down like that? Have you died?"

At this suggestion Duncan stiffened and fell back. "No, but"

Kellogg swept the ground from under his feet. "Robbins," he told the man, "order in dinner for two from the club, and tell 'em to hurry it up."

"Yes, sir," said Robbins, and flew to obey before Duncan could get a chance to countermand his part in the orders.

"And now," continued Kellogg, "we've got the whole evening before us in which to chin. Sit down." He led Duncan to an armchair and gently but firmly plumped him into its capacious depths. "Well, have a snug little dinner here and what do you say to taking in a show afterward?"

"I say no."

"You dussout, my boy. This is the night we celebrate. I'm feeling pretty good tonight."

"You ought to," Harry. Duncan struggled to rouse himself to share in the spirit of gratulation with which Kellogg was bubbling. "I'm mighty glad, old man. It's a great step up for you."

"It's all of that. You could have knocked me over with a feather when Bartlett sprang it on me this morning. Of course, I was expecting something, a boost in salary, or something like that. Bartlett knew that other houses in the street had made me offers. I've been pretty lucky of late and pulled off one or two rather big deals, but a partnership with 'L. J.' Bartlett—Think of it, Nai!"

"I'm thinking of it, and it's great."

"I'll keep me mighty busy," Kellogg blundered blithely on. "It means a lot of extra work, but you know I like to work."

"That's right, you do," agreed Duncan cheerfully. "It's queer to me. I must be a great thing like to work."

"You bet, it's a great thing. Why, I couldn't exist if I couldn't work. You remember that time I laid off for a month in the country for my health's sake? I'll never forget it—hanging round all the time with my hands empty—every one else with something to do. I wouldn't go through with it again for a fortune. Never felt so useless and in the way."

"But," interrupted Duncan, knitting his brows as he grappled with the problem, "you were independent, weren't you? You had money—could pay your board?"

"Of course. Nevertheless I felt in the way."

"That's funny."

"You're the only man who believes that, Harry."

"Back up. I'll stumble across some better opening for you before long, and"

"Stop right there. I'm through!"

"Don't talk that way, Nai. I'll get you in right somewhere."

"You're the best hearted man alive, Harry, but I'll see you blasted first."

"Well," Kellogg demanded his attention. "Here's this man Burnham. You don't know him, but he's as keen as they make 'em. He's on the track of some wonderful scheme for making illuminating gas from crude oil. If it goes through, it's bound to work a revolution. He's down in Washington now—left this afternoon to look up the patents. Now, he needs me to get the ear of the Standard Oil people, and I'll get you in there."

"What right've you got to do that?" demanded Duncan. "What the dickens do I know about illuminating gas or crude oil? Burnham'd never thank you for the likes of me."

"But, thunder, you can learn. All you need—"

"Now, see here, Harry!" Duncan gave him pause with a manner not to be denied. "Once and for all time understand I'm through having you recommend an incompetent just because we're friends."

"But, Harry!"

"And I'm-through living on you while I'm out of a job. That's final."

"But, man, listen to me—when we were at college—"

"That was another matter."

"How many times did you pay the room rent when I was strapped? How many times did your money pull me through when I'd have had to quit and forfeit, my degree because I couldn't earn enough to keep on?"

"That's different. You earned enough finally to square up. You don't owe me anything."

"I owe you the gratitude for the friendly hand that put me in the way of earning—that kept me going when the going was rank. Besides, the conditions are just reversed now; you'll do just as I did—make good in the world and, when it's convenient, to me. As for living here, you're perfectly welcome."

"I know it—and more," Duncan assented. "I'll stay here. I don't think I'd appreciate all you've done for me. But I know and you must understand that I can't keep on living on you—and I won't."

"For once baffled, Kellogg stared at him in consternation. Duncan met his gaze steadily, strong in the sincerity of his attitude. At length Kellogg surrendered, accepting defeat. "Well," he shrugged uncomfortably. "If you insist."

"I do."

"Then that's settled."

"Yes, that's settled."

"Dinner," said Robbins from the doorway. "Is served."

Cuyahoga County Centennial.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 10.—The celebration of Cuyahoga county's centennial started off with a real boom at noon today, a salute of 100 guns being fired. At the same time a flag was raised on the public square by the combined old settlers' societies. Music and speeches followed. Another event of the day was the dedication of the Denison-Harvard bridge. Tomorrow there will be a great floral automobile parade, and there are interesting events scheduled for every day in the week.

Blows Off Head in Wrath.

Dayton, O., Oct. 10.—Indignant at the failure of either barrel of his shotgun to respond when he pulled the triggers at a squirrel in a tree, Charles Sarrenkopf, a farmer, cast the weapon against his barn. His head was blown off.

Shoots Wife, Kills Self.

Kewanee, Ill., Oct. 10.—After shooting his wife twice, Willis E. Melbourne, aged fifty-two, fled to a field two miles southwest of the city where he killed himself by shooting. The couple had been living apart.

A Sure for Smoky Lamps

To have lamps burning their brightest, the bowls should be kept full of oil and the burners free from oil and charred wick. The burners can easily be cleaned by boiling occasionally for half an hour in a strong solution of Cold Dust washing powder; wipe on a cloth and they will be as good as new. Clean the chimney by washing in warm water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Cold Dust washing powder, and wipe dry on a soft towel; polish with old newspaper.
